

Wildfire

TESTIMONIALS

Wildfire exists to make work delicious!

I did indeed win the advertising business I was pitching for. I used ideas that we came up with during our session; they certainly played an important part in how our meeting went.

Alastair Campbell, business owner

The skills that Clare possesses are the ability to listen, to get to the bottom of your problems without dragging you down and in the end have you smiling and feeling positive. She also has infectious energy that enables you to open up and put 100% trust in her.

A.P. Corporate Finance Manager, Banking

The brief was to start people thinking about what motivates them and how they could use this to improve their own, their team and the organisation's performance. Clare's extensive knowledge of the subject area produced a variety of possible content and delivery options.

Clare McCullough, Director of Resources, National Lottery Commission

Clare really made you think about what was important in your life and to stop panicking about the things you can do little about.

Project Me helped me concentrate on me and my needs. Clare helped me to realise that if I am happy, then everything else will fall into place.

Karen-Jane Davies

Women in Project Management

The aim was to increase delegate's professional self-belief. Clare successfully achieved this through an interactive seminar which provided helpful and practical hints.

Karen Lobendham, Lloyds TSB

Clare has a fantastic style - warm, encouraging and exceptionally professional. She is insightful and pragmatic, which means that I come away from sessions feeling clear and raring to go - with an action plan of how to get where I want to go! The support and resources that she freely offers make all the difference and allow the whole coaching process to feel like a supportive partnership, one which has and continues to help me enormously!

Anna Duschinsky, M.E. and Graduate Coach

I have good news, thanks in part to all your wonderful help! They offered me the job on the spot. It involves a probationary period plus they even asked me what I wanted paying! Meanwhile my current employer desperately wants me to stay. I'm taking the offer, a needed challenge. I will be running my own show which would be really amazing. It will be invaluable experience and I think it's going to change my life, big time.
